

MAXVIEW PARTNER CERTIFICATION

DataPath values partner relationships and aspires to create partner capabilities for implementing and supporting MaxView systems in operational environments. To that end, a MaxView Partner Certification program was developed to teach critical engineering skills for partner success. With a focus on systems integration and support, the program combines classroom instruction and on-site shadowing activities to achieve educational and experience benchmarks.

Benefits of Being a MaxView-Certified Vendor

- Qualify for revenue generating incentives
- Assistance in winning business and pipeline management
- Access to online technical resources and support
- Receive advance notification of product feature changes

Partner Evaluation Program

Qualified partner candidates are those with a background in both software development and systems integration. DataPath works closely with qualified vendors to certify them on MaxView software, integration and support. We provide classroom training, class exercises and testing to confirm competence. DataPath also observes the partner in practical demonstrations and assess technical leadership and the ability to implement MaxView beyond the basics.
